UTSA The University of Texas at San Antonio

Office of the President

April 10, 2017

Esteemed Colleague:

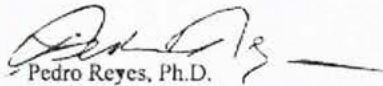

On behalf of The University of Texas at San Antonio (UTSA) and the staff at ConTex, I truly look forward to your visit next month as we prepare for what will undoubtedly be an international convergence of some of the greatest minds in STEM and the social sciences.

This meeting—the first joint meeting between Mexico’s National Council for Science and Technology (CONACYT) and the University of Texas System administration and its institutions—represents the wealth of ingenuity and knowledge that exists within our two countries. What we achieve during our time together will serve as the catalyst to world-changing research as well as to unlocking incredible discoveries. My hope is that each of us comes ready to share ideas and to forge alliances as we lead the way in critical and exciting areas such as manufacturing, nanotechnology, medicine and health, and coastal and marine sciences to name a few.

Our time together will be short and we will have much to accomplish. In preparation, our staff is working attentively to ensure a productive and enjoyable gathering. As you prepare for your visit, Dr. René Zenteno, Vice Provost for International Initiatives and Executive Director of ConTex, along with his team, remain available to answer questions. Please contact him at (210) 458-7240, or via email at rene.zenteno@utsa.edu, for assistance.

Thank you for your partnership and for your support. We eagerly await your arrival as well as your insightful contributions.

Sincerely,

Pedro Reyes, Ph.D.
President ad Interim
